Australia's first regional gender service opens in Wodonga

Updated 1 May 2017, 6:42am

For transgender residents in rural and regional Australia, help is often a long way from home. Many undergoing the transition process are placed in long waiting lists at clinics in Sydney or Melbourne, with very limited support outside of the metropolitan areas. Australia's first regional gender service has just opened in Wodonga and will offer counselling and treatment to under-17 year-olds.
